dormers

The couple had two installed on the third floor. They bring tons of light into the rooms up there and make the roofline more impressive.

pink begonia

landscaping

Alberta spruces serve as natural gateposts on either side of the bluestone path. They're surrounded by pink begonias for color.

front door

The home's original door was black. When Mary Beth and Doug replaced it with this simple style, they picked a sunny yellow paint inspired by the yard's daffodils that pop up in spring.

window boxes

Three black window boxes are packed to the brim with a lush mix of leafy plants and flowers that change seasonally. Boxwood stays green year-round while ivy gives volume spring through fall. Pink Dipladenia and vinca and yellow calibrachoa punch it all up.

benches and pillows

Two small benches flanking the front door greet guests. The pink in the pillows plays off the vinca in the window boxes.
